

THE DIZZY BRAINS

The Dizzy Brains are a garage rock band, inspired by The Sonics, as there are many around the world, except for Madagascar, one of the poorest and most corrupt countries in the world and the birthplace of the quartet. Founded by two brothers, Eddy on vocals and Mahefa on bass, the group fights injustice, lack of possibilities and freedom restriction in the everyday life of the islanders.

Their influences come from bands from their fathers' generation (The Kings, The Stooges, The Vines,...). That's where they found their love for unbridled rock'n'roll (choosing Little Richard over Presley), garage style and psyched atmosphere. They even covered Jacques Dutronc's "Les Cactus" in a version full of thorns. And it's more than music. They are sharing a piece of themselves including their bravery and vulnerability.

They are the face of the opposition in their country, Madagascar's youth trying to survive while going against the political system. This is their passion for life that shines off during their concerts.

The Dizzy Brains have toured in France, the UK, South Korea etc. and the French label X-Ray Production published their first full-length album in 2016.

REVIEWS

"Try and imagine watching the Stooges at their feral pre fame best complete with a skinny Madagascan hanging from the mic with his shirt stripped off like a youthful Iggy, or try to imagine the garage end of the Dead Kennedys cranked through the superfuzz of Mudhoney and that thrilling rush of early Nirvana and you are in the ballpark with a band who pique your curiosity with their home country but transcend it with their unrelenting power and twitching energy. With each song being a lesson in tension and dynamics The Dizzy Brains could actually be the best garage rock band in the world, they are that good..." - Louder Than War, Live Review

"Check it out. It's easy to see why they are a great band to have at any festival, as they bring with them energy, up beat rock songs to have any crowd dancing about. A young rock group from Madagascar The Dizzy Brains is capturing the imagination and attention of the music scene in Europe. The band's unique style is a blend of punk and garage rock and their provocative lyrics tell stories about politics, power and protest in Madagascar. Since their songs challenge authority, the band was shunned from most concert venues and radio stations in Madagascar, but the band developed quite a following underground on social media and outside the country..." - 5shouts.com

"These kids absolutely rock. They are going to make the fire, I'm sure of it. - J.-L. Brossard, director Trans-Musicales festival in Rennes
